Game Plan Creates orders out of KAOS™

Orders are rolling in for KAOS at record numbers because players are choosing it over most other video games.

Initial income report figures are FANTASTIC!

KAOS, the unique vertical maze game, is the first video game completely designed by the new Game Plan

KAOS, available in the Upright Arcade Model, features a little man chasing dollars through moving horizontal bars If he fails to catch them they tum into dragons and try to devour him But the man, by navigating the maze to the top of the screen, can turn into a king Now, he can slay the dragons!

The vertical maze of Kaos appears on a 19-inch screen. It features a little man chasing dollars. If he doesn't catch the dollars, they will drop to the bottom of the screen and turn into dragons. The dragons will then pursue the man who must keep moving to avoid falling to the bottom of the screen, out of action. There is the opportunity for the man to turn into a king and slay the dragons. Gathering dollars and slaying dragons builds points. The player must avoid losing men. The men move faster than the dollars, but slower than the ferocious dragons.

Kaos features eight different video screens which flash on in sequence and with increasing speed as the game progresses.

The unit creates bonus men and money units, "Ergs," for reaching 10,000; 30,000; and 60,000 points.

The game is over when the player has lost all the men. Kaos pits player against machine and can be played by one or two players.
